This is our Manual—year 1963!

Through this year we learned by experience, as we have in all our high school years. Our teachers and friends, textbooks, “paperbacks,” and library books offer a helping hand, a boost, sometimes even a shove in the right direction.

The question is “Which direction is right?”

This is our manual for Redskins—our guidebook for four years of growth.

for Redskins

Manual Of Learning

Emmerich Manual High School's well-planned curriculum gives all Redskins a "manual of learning." Courses of study leading to an academic diploma prepare us for entrance requirements for any college in the country. Other programs fill our needs for varied vocations and industries, and for homemaking.

Space-age automation and expansion hit Manual in 1962-63. From the beginning of the school year, the complicated clerical work, necessary in a school of some 2,200, was handled by an IBM machine located at the School Board Office. Pupils had numbers as well as names, and machine-processed schedules and report cards.

But the IBM machine and the new building addition, which added 11 classrooms, weren't the only evidences of change apparent at Manual as the result of a nationwide surge in emphasis on education and new scientific methods of teaching. Indicative of the increased interest in academics was the more than 200 seniors enrolled in "senior lit." Just five years ago there were 20.

Freshmen boned up on basic grammar in their English classes, and at the same time practiced reading skills in the reading lab during freshman orientation.

Sophomores were introduced to Shakespeare through Julius Caesar. Two English 5g classes studying journalism wrote and produced the annual Ivian kick-off campaign with "The Steve Gallen Show." Their efforts were rewarded when the real "star," Steve Allen himself, mentioned the show on his nighttime TV program.

Booming interest in foreign language made it necessary for the Language section of the English Department to form a department of its own. Work in the language lab was concentrated for Spanish and French students in their first and second year. Advanced pupils of the modern languages, while still using the lab, were introduced to more composition and to literature through European classics.

A grammar base their first two years prepared Latin students for Caesar in their third year and Virgil, their fourth.

Manualites were more concerned than ever with what was going on in their world in 1963. International Relations, an elective senior course in the Social Studies Department, boasted a class of 35 the spring semester. Areas of the world were studied in depth for their cultural, economic, and political systems. Miss Ann Williamson, exchange teacher from Scotland, brought a new viewpoint to her United States and world history classes.

Disecting earthworms, determining sound frequency, and titrating ammonia and hydrochloric acid were a few of the things Manual scientists did in 1963. Biology classes started the largest number of students ever on their way to the state-required two years of science. Semi-micro chemistry equipment, introduced to Manual last year as an experiment, was installed in all chemistry labs; but the old apparatus was retained for demonstrations. Earth Science, a course in astronomy and related subjects, was new. Five Manualites participated in the Indianapolis Science Seminar Saturday morning program. They heard lectures by community scientists and received counseling on individual projects.

The Math section also boasted a new course, and for the first time it became possible for a student to earn 11 credits in mathematics. Two plane geometry classes of math majors experimented by incorporating solid geometry.

The print shop's increasing four times in size and auto shop's doubling in working area were two of the Shop Department's gains from Manual's building program. And larger quarters called for new equipment.

Art classes benefited from the new addition—using it as a model for sketching during the nice days of September. Twelve pieces of work by Manual artists were exhibited at the John Herron Art Museum in an all-public school show, October 15-29. Some of the art shown was also selected to be displayed at the Indianapolis Hobby Show in November where four Manualites demonstrated sketching. Drawing I classes participated in the Indianapolis Post Office "Mail Early for Christmas" poster contest. Redskin Revue program cover and poster contest kept Art Production busy in February.

Music Department classes brought a welcome diversion in a day of school books for student members of our musical performing organizations. Beginning instruments, B-Band, and B-Orchestra members "tooted" or "fiddled" their way toward the A-Band and Orchestra. Choir and Glee Club hopefuls practiced in Girls' and Boys' Chorus classes. In Harmony, pupils learned principles of music construction and even had a chance to try composing.

Realism was the byword in the Business Department. New office furniture for the Office Training class gave each girl the type of desk she would have in business life. Office Training girls, in addition to their class work, process all the forms for department classes and schedules and do work for individual teachers.

Home Economics students gained practical skills in preparation for future homemaking. Foods classes prepared and served a luncheon for the Indianapolis public high school principals, and the meals for the inspecting officers visiting ROTC. Advanced Foods classes dabbled in foreign cookery, while the Boys Foods chefs, not to be outdone, prepared an Italian meal for themselves.

Learning to manicure and shampoo, as well as to apply make-up, kept Social Practice classes busy. A trip to a downtown department store to study decorated rooms highlighted November for Home Management classes.

Family Living classes entertained several speakers including ministers and a couple who used 48 years of experience in married life to tell the girls about home management. The style show at the Projects Fair ended the year for Clothing pupils.

Gym classes gave us a chance to exercise our bodies as well as our minds. All freshmen take the basic course which includes tumbling, apparatus work, instruction in sports, and dancing for girls. Advanced gymnasts work more individually. Instruction in sports was made more interesting this year with the addition of new film strips and recordings.

Seasonal intramurals keep girls busy the year around. Boys play basketball in the winter, and both groups join for bowling.

On succeeding pages are scenes from classrooms, laboratories, and shops that picture aspects of our "manual of learning." "Education for mind, hand, and heart" has been Manual's motto since its founding in 1895, and those of us who are "students" aspire to attain this goal.

Communicating Becomes All-Important Skill

Dramatization in English classes often aids the students' understanding of literature. These English 8 students are watching fellow classmates portray the witch's scene in Macbeth.

An interested parent takes advantage of Open House to visit Manual's "living language" laboratory and to discuss her child's progress with department head, Mr. Millard Arnold.

English Honors Day in May which recognizes outstanding work in the department is the topic of conversation for these Booster staffers. Lynn Kinkade, Julie Schulz, and Patty Koopman survey the journalism keys they hope to win for their stories. Awards are given for the best news, "jeep," feature, and sports stories.

World Affairs Intrigue Today's Manualites

Some students in United States history had the unique experience of being taught by a foreigner. Miss Ann Williamson, exchange teacher from Perth, Scotland, traveled through the United States during her vacation periods. Gary Richards, Pam Payne, Lynne Snead, and Don Sullivan are hearing about a recent trip to Chicago.

Social Studies classes conducted a straw vote during November elections. Ready to enter the booths, Stanley Thompson, Phyllis Summers, and Linda Stumpf accept ballots from Clerk Frank Smith. The result was a Democratic show.

Oran Hornback, Sally Davis, and Diana Brownlee were three of the participants in the Social Studies Department Lilly Scholarship Competition. Department Head Ray Hawkins accepts their research papers, a requirement of the contest.

We Feel the Science 'Push'

Physics experiment using live-model Terri Stoneburner demonstrates gyroscopic motion. The camera's strobe light stopped the wheel which propelled her by its force.

In Solid Geometry, theorems are made more graphic by the students' making models of them. Mr. Fred Ahlemeyer discusses a model showing a line perpendicular to a plane.

Every Manualite is at sometime during his four years a student of biology. Fall and spring the campus abounds with insect- or leaf-hunting pupils. Kipp Rucker, Ora Brier, and Nancy Horn are thankful for Nature's help as they brandish their nets for their insect collections.

We Pursue Fine Arts

Art work takes many forms. Students take advantage of the new 13-room addition while, below, a drawing class tackles a piece of sculpture with a cornet added for interest.

The Glee Club takes to the air for Young America Sings, broadcast over Radio Station WIBC on Sunday evenings. The Choir also tapes a show for the all-public-school series.

Manual's Marching Redskins represent the school in many places. Mr. William Kleyla and his Band perform at the new Garfield Post Office, playing for the dedication ceremony.

Nimble Fingers Practice Daily in Labs

Clothing and foods classes develop practical homemaking skills in modern laboratories. Seamstresses like these keep sewing machines humming, making everything from a simple apron in Clothing 1 to a formal in advanced classes.

On the spot observation helps Home Nursing students—Jan Phelps, Judy Parker, Jane Forester, Sharon Boyer, Phyllis Roch and Pat Taylor—learn the irregular eating habits of children. Members of the class brought their young brothers and sisters to school as real life models of pre-school behavior described in the textbook.

Our Business Department prepares its majors to hold down jobs in a competitive business world. This class's realistic office furniture adds interest and incentive to assignments.

Boys Like 'Shop Talk'

Print shop boys serve Manual while learning their skill. Stan Waterman, Don Jewell, and Ron Reintjes print tickets while Doyle Biggs and Garry Maynard prepare paper.

Bill Jones watches while Bob Humes traces the path of an electric current on a five tube Superhetrodyne radio. Except that the parts are spread out, the radio is just like ours at home.

John Davy runs a block of wood which will soon become a table leg through the band saw in wood shop.

Dressed for their work, Jim Brooks and Bill Lichtenberger put the cover on the rocker arm of an automobile motor. Auto shop whirs with the sounds of running motors every day.

Gym, Field Hum with Activity in Season

Halfway through his forward roll, Mike Smith is just a blur of motion to his watching classmates. The addition of two human obstacles makes the roll doubly difficult.

Warm weather is the gym student's cue to take to the field. An advanced class gets exercise playing touch football.

Manual Of Fun

Although "reading, writing, and arithmetic" fill seven hours of our school day, we Manualites squeeze in extra activities which not only stimulate our interest in classwork and allow us to "show what we can do" to parents and friends, but also provide us with just plain fun and a chance to meet new friends.

During this year our "borders" of international interest in this shrinking world were greatly extended. Our first American Field Service Foreign Exchange Student since 1958, Jeanette Klein, arrived in September from Johannesburg, South Africa. Living with Senior

Terri Stoneburner and her family, Jan not only gained herself an impressive spot atop the Honor Roll, but also learned the intricacies of Pep Club cheers, and caught our TV "bug."

Vesla Kallhovd, a native of Egersund, Norway, spent the spring semester in the home of Senior Judy and Freshman Ron McBride, as an exchange student in the International Christian Youth Exchange program. Vesla was a victim of "Hoosier Hysteria" less than a month after her arrival.

Senior Lynne Simmerman joined the Indiana University Honors Program in Foreign Language, studying in the French fishing town of St. Brieuc, during summer, 1962.

Manual's Homecoming celebration in September presented King Manual X, Phil Steele, and Queen Terri Stoneburner, who were crowned during a half-time show.

In the midst of a nation-wide re-evaluation of the high school ROTC program, Manual's Battle Group of some 260 cadets continued to serve the school, acting as messengers, ushers, doormen, and guards at school functions. The unit participated in the downtown Veterans Day and Armed Forces Day parades. Reward for their work came last spring, when Manual was again cited with an "honor" rating at Federal Inspection.

On Turn-about Day we "turned the tables" on the teachers and took over for them and our administrators. Opportunity Day gave Manualites a chance to look into a crystal ball at their futures.

Dances throughout the year transformed the Cafeteria from a noisy lunchroom to an inviting dance floor. Masoma and Roines combined for the fall Pigskin Prom, followed by the Ivian's Pic Parade. The Student Affairs Board sponsored after-basketball-games dances where the "twist" and "continental" were the vogue. The Choir's Snow Whirl provided a Christmas formal, and the Glee Club sponsored the annual turn-about Cherry Tree Hop. ROTC cadets and band members attended the Military Ball in March.

In March the curtain goes up on the two-night Redskin Revue. This year's production, March 29-30, spanned the globe with Chinamen, Egyptians, Indians, and Tarzan.

Parents join our fun, too. The P-TA's annual Pow Wow in May featured dinner, club-sponsored booths, a vaudeville show, and record hop.

The annual Projects Fair is set up in the gym in June. "Best" work developed in all departments is exhibited, a fitting climax to the school year.

Teen Star Reporter Cindy Eaton interviews Jeanette Klein, South African exchange student, and Miss Ann Williamson, exchange teacher from Scotland, for an article on their impressions of the United States.

Foreign Atmosphere Pervades Halls

Exchange Student Jan Klein cheers Manual's basketball team on with the Pep Club at a close game.

Judy McBride and Bill Styring comment on Exchange Student Vesla Kallhovd's Booster article about her impressions of America.

Lynne Simmerman, Manual's summer exchange student to France, visits one of the famous monuments, "Arc de Triomphe" in Paris.

Football Festivities Welcome Homecoming Grads

Saluting Homecoming King and Queen Phil Steele and Terri Stoneburner as they begin their reign, are the Band Twirlers and the Glee Club.

Homecoming King Phil Steele and Queen Terri Stoneburner have just been named by Principal C. Edgar Stahl.

ROTC Sponsors Kathy Burks, Paula Switzer, Ginny Blumhardt, Nancy Weddle, Deanna Borgmann, Conni Dorville, and Sue Elrod assemble on Manual's main stairway, ready to take their places as hostesses on Opportunity Day. These honorary ROTC officers are elected each year by the cadets.

ROTC 'Looks Sharp, Is Sharp' at Inspection

ROTC Color Guard—Phil Jones, Oran Hornback, Mike Guyne, and LeRoy Butler—bear Manual's flag in the Veterans' Day Parade in downtown Indianapolis.

Miss Martha Akers, Supervisor of Student Nursing at the Indiana University Medical Center, and Wanda Bailey, a Manual graduate, tell Joyce Stout of the opportunities which await her there.

We Talk of Future, Display Present Talents

Senior Jane Forester introduces Mr. Price L. Hawkins, Jr., Hawkins' Pharmacy, Manual '51, a guest speaker on Opportunity Day, a day set aside to inform pupils about various careers.

Teacher and pupil visitors to the Projects Fair view work by art classes. Parents and patrons attend in the evening after P-TA.

The annual Student Project Fair displays work from each department in school. At the top is a project from the science department showing the manner in which crystals grow. At the bottom wood-work from the shop department holds the interest of a group.

Karen Smith receives a National Council of Teachers of English "first" citation for outstanding work in English from Mr. Richard Blough, head of the English Department.

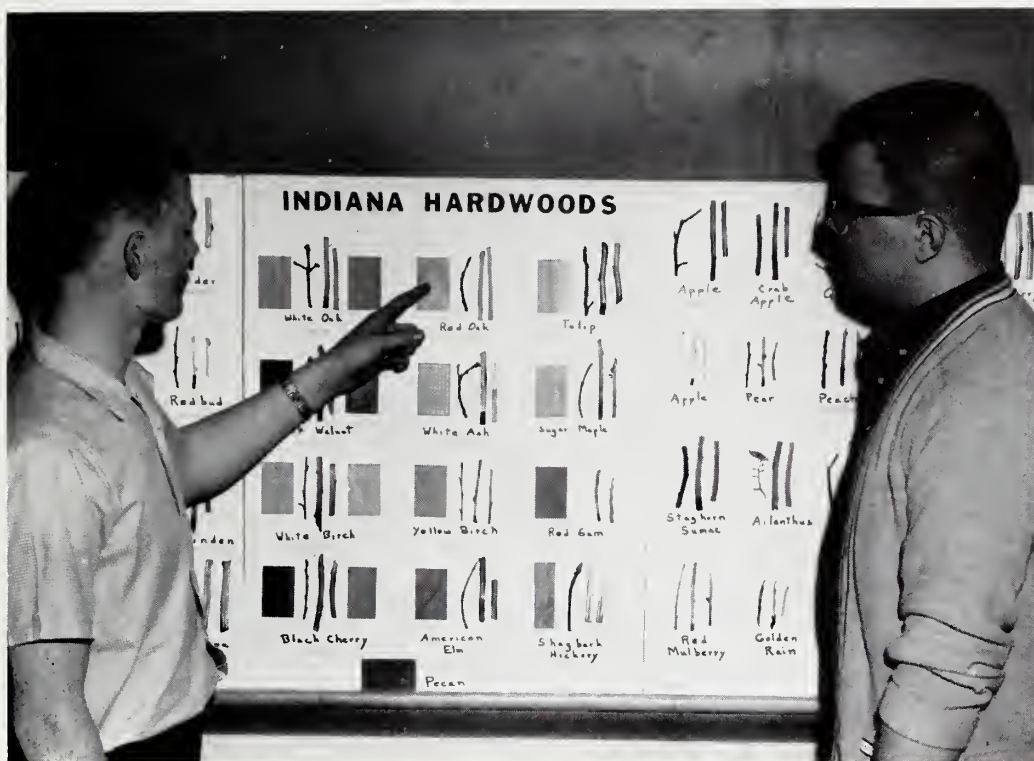

Bill Styring and Judy McBride receive congratulations from Mr. Howard Thrall on their placement in the National Merit finals.

We Step Up To Receive School Honors

Bandmaster William Kleyla, Captain Janice Ryder, Drum Major Diane Eickhoff, and Lieutenants Ron Busch, and Dave Bramlett pose behind a collection of Band Kiwanis trophies. Manual's Marchers won these awards for the most outstanding city football band for eight out of nine years.

Sophomore Paul Stroud and Junior Bob Humes, both winners in the Regional Science Fair, study Paul's project, which won second place in 10th grade science. Bob's entry, "Parameters of Dental Radiography," received first place for the best dental project and honorable mention in engineering.

Manual's "Exercise in Knowledge" team, composed of Seniors Bill Styring, Jerry Steadham, Karen Smith, and Judy McBride, brought honor to Manual by winning WLW-TV's high school quiz program. JoNell Rugenstein and Ralph Tacoma were "extras."

Mr. Larry Fanning, executive editor of the Chicago Sun-Times, congratulates Jerry Steadham on his winning a journalism scholarship at I. U. Journalism Institute.

Carol Maier and Phil Steele, Martha and George of the annual Cherry Tree Hop, pose with court attendants and Glee Club officials Brenda Spreen, Mary Beth Fill, Barbara Klopp, Judy Bernhardt, Shirley Hillman, Conni Dorville, Roy Lashley, Dick Hedegard, and Paul Switzer.

Manualites Forget Studies on Dance Floor

Masoma Carol Stevenson crowns John Evans King Football at the Pigskin Prom, sponsored by the Masoma and Roines.

Pic Parade royalty were Conni Dorville and Denny Richards. Joy Vornehm, Mike Shea, Janice Ryder, John Evans, Wayne Monroe, Sandy Hopwood, Dave Bramlett, and Sue Stephenson were candidates for Snow Whirl king and queen.

Parents Back Us with Crowd-drawing Projects

Tri-Hi-Y's French cafe at the May Pow Wow attracted weary visitors to its red-check-covered tables for coffee and donuts.

Feature attraction on the parking lot was the Roines Rinse where the prize for having straight aim was seeing a member dunked.

Mrs. J. Dudley Workman, Mrs. Irma Adams, Mr. Workman, and Mrs. Earl Lewis greet refreshment stand comers with glazed donuts. Parents also keep hungry basketball fans satisfied.

Games of skill at club-sponsored booths send many Pow Wow visitors home with arms full of prizes.

Crowds are sure to gather at parent-manned refreshment stands both before football games and during half-time.

Confusion 'Reigns' Over '63 Redskin Revue

Bill Styring, recipient of "Best Comic Portrayal" award, tries to sell King Put Put (Don Townsend) a used carpet while slave attendant (Jim Richards) fans. The act was written by Mary Fill and Ginny Blumhardt.

"Tarzan Swings Again," written by Nancy Howell and Mary Stienecker, boasted "Best Vocalist," Ben Schanzel who appears here with Donna Jones and JoAnn Moran.

The winning chorus line, from "Ring-a-Ding Reservation," was also the largest with fourteen members and two alternates. Act writers were JoNell Rugenstein and Anthea Salsbury.

"Reign of Confusion," written by Sue Elrod and Linda Thomas, was the story of a Nationalist Chinese village's problems and how their ruler, Confusion, solved them. Awarded "Best Act of 1963," "Reign of Confusion" also reaped "Best Male Performer" by Wayne Monroe, who portrayed Confusion, and "Best Group Performance" by a group of five singing sailor boys

This year's Redskin Revue's winning intermission act was a modern jazz ballet. Performing members were Jackie Baker, Martha Dexter, Robin Cain, and Connie Beghtel.

Manual For Redskins

Our Manual for Redskins offers opportunities for us to see what we learn in the class room for fun and service. As teen-agers in a busy world, we realize the need for extracurricular activities which give us a chance to work with others as group members and leaders. Honoraries, service clubs, and class-related organizations—they all make up our Manual of Activities

Honoraries Use Talent, Time for Service

Roines members carried Manual's Christmas spirit outside with the traditional wreath over the Madison Avenue entrance.

Although telling fortunes is usually the job of gypsies, Manual's Masomas tried their luck with the mystic sciences at the April Pow Wow. With the Roines, senior boys' honorary, the club sponsored the November Pigskin Prom, and helped at athletic banquets and the Alumni Night dinner. At a banquet in May, the girls heard a panel of faculty and staff members, Masoma alumnae. Sponsored by Miss Elizabeth Goett and Mrs. Judy Blough, the club was led by President Carol Stevenson, Vice-president Carol Davis, Secretaries Terri Stoneburner and Karen Smith, and Treasurer Judy McBride.

ROMP was the secret word for the Roines in October. Puzzled Manualites finally learned that the word seen on signs meant an informal hop coming up. A second ROMP was scheduled in the spring. Roines was in charge of keeping the community posted on coming events by taking care of the outside bulletin board. For their annual Christmas wreath, the boys felled a 30-foot tree, used the lower boughs, and gave the top to the Junior Class for their traditional Christmas tree. Officers of the club, sponsored by Mr. Richard Blough, were President Jerry Steadham, Vice-president Bill Styring, Secretary Bob Surber, and Treasurer Dave Morris.

For the same occasion, Masoma Carol Davis awards Sharon Dain a plant for her Home Room 119B, which had the best turn-out.

Student Affairs Board Sponsors 'Clean Up'

Meeting biweekly, the 16-member Student Affairs Board sponsored the Manual Clean-Up Campaign this spring. The Board selected Jan Klein, foreign exchange student, as Manual's Clean-Up Queen candidate. Officers of the Board are Phil Steele, president; Dave Morris, first vice-president; Bill Styring, second vice-president; Jim Brooks, treasurer; and Conni Dorville, secretary.

Club Studies Stimulate World Consciousness

Foreign "ambassadors," traveling teachers, and Indiana historical sites all contributed to the activities of this year's Citizens' League. Miss Ann Williamson, exchange teacher from Scotland, spoke to the club in the fall, and exchange students Jeanette Klein and Vesla Kallhovd entertained in the spring. Mrs. Coral Black, Social Studies teacher, showed slides of the Holy Land at a March meeting. During spring vacation the group visited the Conner Prairie Farm at Noblesville, the home of one of Indiana's pioneers. Sponsored by Mrs. Jean Howell, the club was guided by President Oran Hornback, Vice-president Glada Hornback, Secretary Mary Jane Hollcraft, and Treasurer Rosemary Lemme.

Taking advantage of the "El Greco to Goya" art collection, 18 members of Manual's Spanish Club traveled to the John Herron Art Museum downtown in February to do some extra-curricular studying of Spanish culture. Not quite so beautiful, perhaps, but just as satisfying was a trip to the Taco House restaurant in April where 18 "senors" and "senoritas" learned the value of ice-cold glasses of water. At Christmas, a gift basket was collected for a needy family. Club officers were Linda Short, president; Bob Tiffany, vice-president; Marsha Cummings, secretary; and Carol Jarvis, treasurer.

Mrs. Coral Black, Social Studies teacher, uses her color slides and knowledge accumulated on recent trips to Asia and the Holy Land to lecture at a meeting of the Citizens' League.

Showing souvenirs of Ecuador to Spanish Club members Linda Short, Sandra Weidman, Carol Jarvis, Sharon Weidman, Tom Bonar, Lonnie Robertson, Bill O'Brien, and Christine Payne is Mr. Edward Hegarty, sponsor. The fan is a "yappa," an extra bonus thrown in with a purchase.

Communicative Arts Clubs Perform on Stage,

Posing on the set of "Time Out for Ginger," are cast members—Bill Styring, Paula Switzer, Chuck Lambuth, Peggy Pearce, Georgeanna Lewis, Joe O'Brien, Mary Evans, Donna Berry, and Jim Muir.

"The whiff of grease paint" is too much to resist for members of Manual's Mask and Wig Club who like acting, make-up, costume, or anything to do with the stage. Mrs. Mildred Hasken's club took part in all these activities while putting on their productions. The October performance of "Time Out for Ginger," the story of a female high school football player, followed by a dance in the cafeteria, was the club's first project of the year.

At the Night of One-Act Plays on April 20 the Mask and Wig presented "The Man in the Bowler Hat" as its portion of the program. Deciding upon using these two plays kept the play reading committee and Chairman Donna Berry busy throughout the year. Doing their respective jobs and appearing in plays offered plenty to do for Officers Jim Muir, president; Peggy Pearce, vice-president; Cheryl Nackenhorst, secretary; and Phyllis Engleman, treasurer.

Air Shows on WMHS

Honoring Thesbus the ancient Greek actor and playwright, the name National Thespian Society indicates the interest of this honorary organization in dramatics. The Manual chapter sponsored by Mr. Fred Bennett expresses its interest by having dramatic readings and talks about the theater at its meetings, producing plays, and putting on school programs. The society this year was no exception presenting "Egad, What a Cad," a comedy meller-drammer, and "Steps from Beyond," involving the murder of an underground agent, as part of the Thespian Afternoon of One Act Plays on October 10. Their contribution to the Night of One Acts was "Riders to the Sea." As projects the honorary presented the school Christmas program and the stage show at the annual alumni celebration. Officers were Ginny Blumhardt, president; Bill Styring, vice-president; Terri Stoneburner, secretary; and Jerry Steadham, treasurer.

Manual's radio station WMHS also appeals to those who have a flair to appear before an audience. The station presented programs every morning over the school intercom system featuring music, commentary, special features, and interviews.

'Booster' Prints Manual History as It Happens

Delving in the darkroom science are "BOOSTER" and "IVIAN" photographers Chuck Williams, Bob LaFara, and Jayne Perkon.

Deadlines, headlines, paste jars, and typewriters surround members of the Booster staff as they record Manual news as it happens. Typewriters get a workout when reporters gather the news, sportswriters cover the games, and editors wield critical pencils. Headline-writing comes on deadline day, Friday. All "copy" (news stories, features, editorials, or what have you) is due a week before publication. The next Monday, copy comes back from the printers ready for proofreading. Page editors, equipped with scissors and paste jars, cut stories and arrange them on the page. After one more final check, the news of the week comes "hot off the press" on Friday morning, ready for Home Room Agents (paper carriers) to deliver.

Editor Jerry Steadham brought back new ideas for The Booster from the Indiana University Journalism Institute this year. A new headline style, name-plate, Page 2 make-up, and column, Bill's Blurbs, appeared in the first issues of the paper. Upperclassmen discovered even the name had been changed from The Booster to The Manual Booster.

A Christmas issue printed in green ink, a feature backing the controversial high school ROTC program, the Alumni issue, a series of articles on summer jobs, a campaign to back the Indianapolis Zoo were typical of the news and views found in this year's Booster. An editorial earned a Freedoms Foundation George Washington Medal.

‘Ivian’ Checks Every Corner of School for News

Beginning with Freshman orientation in September and ending with Commencement in June, the Ivian staff hears, sees, and records Manual life. To the Manualite the Ivian is a handy “black” book, autograph book, or memory book. For the staff, it is a headline a half space too long, a headless basketball player, or one senior picture left for a page all its own. Editor Karen Smith started work last summer at the High School Journalism Institute. Fall starts the period when news is “made.” During winter, the pace speeds up as ads are sold, and copy and pictures readied. Last comes the hectic week before final deadlines. Then, that final sigh—the Ivian goes to press.

Slide Rules, 'Scopes' Interest Math, Science Clubs

Manual's Math Club has continued to grow this year with seven new members. Each Tuesday, in Room 325, they engage in mathematical puzzles and games or are treated to a guest speaker. Often students, themselves, prepare talks about anything from binary numbers to short cuts in mathematical operations. Frequently, this active group participates in activities outside of school such as this year's visits to Allison's Powerama and the Butler Observatory. Sponsored by Mrs. Jennie Howe, this year's officers are Joe O'Brien, president; Susan Peters, vice-president; Larry Mills, secretary; and JoNell Rugenstein, treasurer.

Thoughts of horror might run through anyone else's mind at the prospect of exploring a moist, dark cave, but Science Club members enjoy spelunking. Besides "cave exploring," their learning activities consist of listening to speakers (guests and members) and working on projects. This year several members entered their projects in the Regional Science Fair, while others worked toward Manual's own Project Fair as their goal.

President Joe O'Brien solves the equation of a circle analytically rather than geometrically for observing Math Club members.

Band's Appearance at '500' Mile Race Crowns

Everyone ready? There's time for last-minute instructions before the Band marches onto the field for a precision half-time show.

The Redskin Band performed before its largest viewing and listening audience ever this year as Drum Major Diane Eickhoff led the high-stepping band across the finish line at the '500' Mile Race in pre-race festivities. After three years of exclusion, Indianapolis high schools received permission from the North Central Association of Secondary School Principals to march in the 500 Festival Parade. Performances in these '500' festivities were a fitting climax to the band's tenth year under the direction of Mr. William Kleyla. The band director received a plaque from the South Side Optimist Club in recognition of his work at Manual.

A "new" Manual Band marched onto the field at the football jamboree last fall in black, red, and white uniforms with M's on the front and Indian heads on the back. Sophomore Diane Eickhoff stepped into her brother's boots as Drum Major. Some things weren't new, however, for Kiwanis "Best Football Band" trophy number 8 and a plaque for 1st division in the Indiana School Music Association Marching Contest rest in the crowded trophy case.

Miles of Marching

Seniors tried their skill at directing as they planned the last football half-time show and taught it to the band. Mr. Kleyla saw the result for the first time Friday night from the press box. Representing Angelo Angelopolus' alma mater, the Redskins marched at an Indianapolis Warriors' game, a benefit for the Leukemia Fund in his memory.

Civic responsibilities filled the year's calendar with participation in the Christmas Parade and dedication of the Garfield Post Office. Before leading the Veterans' Day Parade, the band played for the Memorial Service in the World War Memorial Building.

Donning formal black uniforms, the instrumentalists presented the annual Band-Glee Club Concert and played for the P-TA. As warm weather came, members brought out bermudas, sunglasses, and hats, and marched muscles into shape for spring activities.

Seventeen seniors played for the last time at Commencement. Captain Janice Ryder, Woodwind Lieutenant Dave Bramlett, Brass Lieutenant Ron Busch, Secretary Nancy Weddle, and Historian Judy McBride provided leadership for the year.

Filling the gymnasium with pep (and noise) at each home basketball game were members of the Pep Band. Quietest moment of each game was the presentation of the colors by the Band Color Guard.

Sixty-seven vocalists and unseen members in the pit endured many sore throats to produce "Silk Stockings." Half of the cast mastered Russian accents in the East-West musical.

For This Year's Musical, 'Silk Stockings'

Cooperation was the keynote of the year for the Choir and Orchestra. Voices and strings from the pit orchestra blended to produce the musical, "Silk Stockings." Ben Schanzel played a Russian composer who traveled to Paris. He was followed by a lovely Russian spy, Donna Pahud, who fell in love with an American agent, Steve Davis. Movie queen Sue Stephenson further complicated the plot.

Again the two musical groups combined for the Choir-Orchestra Concert and later joined the rest of the Music Department for the May Music Festival.

Under the direction of Mr. Wendell Mertz the Choir sponsored the Snow Whirl, sang carols in downtown stores at Christmas, and taped a program for WIBC. President Wayne Monroe, Vice-president Carol Davis, Secretary Joy Vornehm, and Treasurer Mike Shea were the officers for the year.

Cellos, violins, violas, and string basses produced music daily under the baton of Miss Margaret Warner. Brass and woodwind players from the band practice weekly with the string orchestra for performances such as the P-TA concert. The final appearance of the year was Senior Vespers. Officers were Lucia Verdouw, president, Joyce Shimp, vice-president, and Marilyn Langford, secretary.

Silk stockings, a Western attraction for spy Donna Pahud, are presented to her by Steve Davis in the 1962 musical.

Glee Club Entertains At Programs, Dance

Glee Club voices were heard all over Indianapolis this year as the girls performed at various civic functions. The Manual stage is also familiar to the club which sang in Christmas, Ivian, and Memorial Day auds. "Hoedown Charlie Brown" and a group of square-dancers were featured at the Band-Glee Club Concert. The only "outside" appearance this year was Homecoming. Joining with over 400 other girls, Manual's 65-member Glee Club presented an All-City Girls' Concert March 27.

A select group from the club, the Glee-ettes, went "on the road" to the Fletcher Place Community Center, Broad Ripple Christian Church, and Indianapolis Historical Society meeting, and a party for William H. Block Company staff members.

Fun increased at the Glee Club's Cherry Tree Hop, Christmas Banquet, and spring picnic at Brown County. Officers for the year were Conni Dorville, president; Martha Melton, vice-president; Linda Thomas, secretary; Joyce Stout, treasurer; and Janie Forester, historian.

"Martha" Carol Maier and "George" Phil Steele lead the royal dance after their coronation at the Cherry Tree Hop.

'Y' Clubs, Red Cross Work for Others

Service and friendship are the cornerstones of three Manual clubs. In the Indianapolis Model United Nations, April 24-27, Manual's Tri-Hi-Y represented Ghana, Yemen, Mali, and the Federation of Malaya. Miss Ellen Ramar sponsors the club which gave money for world service, school, and community projects from December candy sale profits.

The Y-Teens became active this year after a year's absence and provided a candle-squirt gun booth at the Pow Wow. After making tray placemats and centerpieces, and towel dolls for children in Riley Hospital, High School Red Cross visited the Indianapolis Red Cross Chapter House April 18, with their sponsor, Mrs. Betty Baker.

FTA Boasts State Veep; FNC, Hours of Aid

Discussing the Area Meeting are FTA's Kathy Norman, Conni Dorville, Brenda Richardson, Martha Melton, and Ginger Davis.

"Readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic" extended into the after-school hours for Manual's Future Teachers of America Club in activities designed for further acquaintance with teaching. Instead of exchanging Christmas gifts, the girls took toys to the Indianapolis Day Care Nursery. A Delta Kappa Gamma tea for prospective teachers was on the schedule for March. In April the girls contributed a booth of games for children at the Pow Wow. Martha Melton was second vice-president of the state organization. Officers of the club were President Conni Dorville, Vice-president Judy Yates, Secretary Martha Melton, and Treasurer Mike Clouse. Sponsor was Miss Margaret Consodine.

Health careers were in the dreams of Manual Future Nurses. A tour of the Indianapolis Practical Nursing School gave the girls an indication of the work involved. But the job of nursing was not entirely new to six Candy Strippers — Ginny Speck, Donna Black, Elizabeth Hardman, Mary Ann Orlosky, Sharon Rockley, and Carol Wilsey, who earned awards for service at Veterans Hospital. Leaders of the club, sponsored by Nurse Virginia Edds, were Sharon Boyer, president; Mary Brinkman, vice-president; Ginny Speck, secretary; and Carol Wilsey, treasurer.

After initiating new members, Manual's Future Nurses Club took time out for refreshments in the Alumni Room. Punch and cookies were served to welcome the new "recruits."

Two Newest Clubs Set Enviably Records

Behind-the-press experience in companies throughout the city gave Future Printers a chance to see professionals at work. Field trips kept car motors humming as the group visited Bemis Bag, Inland Container, Circle Engraving Company, and Howard Sams Publishing Company. The Tech High School print shop was the destination for the club's March outing. Visitors also gave the boys "info" on their possible future occupation. Mr. Ed Unser from the William B. Burford Printing Company brought colored movies when he spoke in March. The local typographical union sent a representative to air its views. Officers of the club, sponsored by Mr. Marvin Thorpe, were Jim Oden, president; James Wallace, first vice-president; Don Wallace, second vice-president; Don Ennis, secretary; and Michael VasBinder, treasurer.

Knights and bishops fell like flies every two weeks at meetings of Manual's newest organization, the Chess Club. After weeks of practice, the group had a tournament among themselves in preparation for future games with other schools. Sponsored by Mr. Harold Bennett, the club was led by President John May and Vice-president Steve Susemichael.

Manual's newest club, the Chess Club, already has an active following with members Charles St. Clair, Chuck Patrick, John May, Terry Lewis, Steve Susemichael, Steve Le-wallen, Doug Stegemoller, Tom Cook, Volly Nelson, and Mike McCarty.

Redskin Gridders Fare Well with 5-3-1 Season

To the delight of Homecoming fans, safety man John Evans picks off a Howe pass in the end zone for a touchback. Dave Morris and Jack Lloyd run up to him to assist in the action.

Flanker Bill Bush sprints for yardage as he straight-arms a Howe Player. Mike Liggett (47) and Lewis Vaughn (38) move in.

Another fine grid season saw Manual's footballers run through the campaign with two effective spurts to finish fifth in city play with a 5-3-1 record. The Ellismen won strong at the start and finish while slumping a little in the middle of the season. Redskin scalps included Sacred Heart, Howe, Broad Ripple, Southport, and Wood. Washington battled the Ellismen for the tie. Cathedral, Shortridge, and city champ Tech were responsible for the Redskin defeats in crucial games on the city record.

Seniors Dave Morris and Lewis Vaughn placed in the city's top ten scores: Halfback Dave scored 50 points, and Fullback Lewis crossed the goal line for 46. Other fourth year men coming through with a good effort included Bill Bush, Dave Graves, Wayne Monroe, Jack Lloyd, Dick Acton, Mike Shea, Charles Johnson, and John Farmer. John Evans, first string quarterback, marched off with two top honors of the season. He received the honor of being named "most valuable player" by his squad, and was voted "King Football" at the Pigskin Prom.

To start the campaign, the Redmen showed a preview of the rest of the season by coming from behind to top Sacred Heart 13-12 in the initial tilt. The Washington standoff at 13-13 saw all of the scoring in the first half with a defensive show in the second by two well-matched teams.

To show their enthusiasm at Redskin touchdowns, Varsity Cheerleaders Bob Bauer and Robbie Olds "turn a flip."

Dave Morris, Lewis Vaughn Lead Scoring

Howe fell 13-0 before the usual over-flow Homecoming crowd that saw Phil Steele and Terri Stoneburner crowned King and Queen Manual the Tenth at Delavan Smith Field. Manual's winning ways hit a snag here that led to three defeats in a row. The most exciting game of the season was the Cathedral tilt in which Cathedral pulled out a 7-6 victory with a late-in-the-game touchdown to start that mid-season slump. Shortridge followed up with a 6-0 tilt and city champ Tech swamped the Redmen 27-0 before the team got rolling again. Broad Ripple fell to the Redskins 19-6, and Southport came next 21-14. The Redmen, in stopping the South Central champ Cardinals, held off a third period rally to bring victory. The Redskins finished with a bang by chalking up a 27-0 total against Wood.

Manual's Reserves under Coach Jack Johns came through a shaky season of close contests with only one win, while dropping six and tying one. That one victory, over Washington 33-6, was the highest scoring output of the year. Three close games could easily have been turned into Redskin victories as the "B's" were downed by Sacred Heart 6-0, Howe 7-0, and Cathedral 19-12.

Whooping it up after a Redskin touchdown are Varsity Cheerleaders Carol Maier, Lynne Barnett, Joy Vornehm, Karen Bertels, Mary Stainbrook, Terri Stoneburner, and Mascot Jan Buzzard.

Coach Noah Ellis heads out on the field for a final confab with his Redskin gridders. Players do last-minute warming and loosening up together before each game.

15 Lettermen to Return for '63 Varsity Team

Cheersters Joy Vornehm, Bob Bauer, Terri Stoneburner, Mascot Jan Buzzard, Karen Bertels, Lynne Barnett, Carol Maier, Robbie Olds, and Mary Stainbrook confer with Sponsor Thelma Morgan as they plan their cheering routines for the evening's game.

In an added attraction of the season, the Redmen Reserves faced Franklin Central's Varsity, and fared well in losing 42-33 to the older team. During the several games, the Redskin defense stood up well, but the big push in offense didn't come.

The Freshman gridders also traveled a bumpy road as Coach Tommy Moore's charges chalked up one win and five losses. The Redskin Frosh could muster no more than 27 total points in the six games with a single game high of seven, as the boys gained much needed experience. Howe fell 7-0 for the only win of the year, and the team dropped tilts to city foes Broad Ripple 20-6, Washington 21-7, and Cathedral 20-0. The first year boys battled to the last minute in the Shortridge game but fell 13-7 with the ball just a few yards from the goal. Tech came out on top in the season final 14-0, to end a poor first schedule for the Frosh.

Lee Gadiant Takes Regional Wrestling Title;

Looks like rodeo bulldogging time as Dave Stewart gets mat position and leverage to slap his opponent onto the mat.

Junior Lee Gadiant placed fourth in the State and won Most Valuable Wrestling honors to highlight the 1962-63 mat season. Lee blazed through the regular season with a 10-1-2 record to cap the 3-11 Redskin card. Gadiant tallied a third place in the city, and copped Sectional and Regional titles to finish with a 17-4-2 slate for the season.

Senior Wayne Monroe paced Coach Jack Foster's wrestlers in the City Tourney as the 200-pound grappler won the Heavyweight division. Wayne had a sparkling regular season record of 10-0-1 and went on to snare the Sectional crown and place second in the Regional, closing out at 17-1-1. Other Redskins who fared well in the City Tourney were second placers Dave Graves and Jack Lloyd.

Manual had four Sectional champs who qualified for the Regional and placed the Redmen in second place in the Franklin Central Sectional. Jack Lloyd and Mike Mascari won, along with Gadiant and Monroe. Dave Graves copped a second and Mark Schofield, Dave Stewart, and Dave Hopwood each won third-places to mark up 83 team points.

Four Survive Sectional

The Reserve grapplers, coached by Mr. Alfred Pike, completed their schedule on the long end of an 8-5 record. The "B" wrestlers placed fourth in the Reserve City Tourney, staged at Manual, with 52 markers. Conrad Seniour and Ed Wood each won their respective weight titles. Coach Leland Walter's freshman squad also tagged a fourth in City Tourney play. The Frosh scored 42 points with Jim Andrews taking first place in his division.

Harriers, Third in City Win Southport 'Invite'

Coach Jack Foster's Redskin Harriers captured the Southport Invitational Cross Country Meet crown by posting a team score of 74 to better the scores of the more than twenty teams entered. Scott Hartman and Ken Collins placed eighth and ninth respectively with times of 10:22 and 10:26. Last year Foster's men finished in third slot as they bettered nine other squads.

The Cross Country men completed their nine-meet schedule holding a third-place berth in the city standings. The Wood-Cathedral-Sacred Heart meet saw the Harriers down the three opponents with a 35. The C-C men grabbed a first place at Warren Central in the final meet of the season.

The Redskins took a second in the Broad Ripple-North Central triangular meet. Thirds were earned in the Howe Invitational and the City Meet. The Harriers finished fifth in the Washington Invitational, Shortridge Invitational, and the Sectionals.

Five seniors will graduate from the team this year. They are Scott Hartman, Ken Collins, Tom McLaughlin, Terry Steadham, and Bill Fritsche. Larry Johnson, Merrell Owen, Harold Brown, and the reserve squad will return next year.

Redskin Roundballers Spark Play for Sectional

Coach "Dee" Compton perked up Manual's roundballers for two well-played sectional tilts after a season of ups and downs. The Redmen started the season at a 5-5 pace, but slumped by dropping their last nine tilts of the campaign. Five good games found the Redskins on top over Bloomington, New Albany, Ben Davis, Wood, and North Central. Several tilts could have seen Manual the victor with a break or two. These were with Cathedral, Terre Haute Gerstmeier, Washington, Broad Ripple, Arlington, Shortridge, and Scecina.

At the Southport Sectional, Manual reversed a mid-season loss to Howe by a 58-56 comeback tilt with the Hornets. Earning a second round game against Southport, the Redskins and Cardinals played to a 80-68 net-splitting engagement to end 5-16 season for Manual. Roger Wathen earned an all-sectional berth for his work in the Southport game. Five boys and all but one starter graduated—Roger Wathen, Phil Steele, John Evans, Doug Mullen, and Paul Switzer. John received the MVP award. This was Manual's second losing season in a row, but good Reserve and Freshman teams make a bright future outlook.

Manual's Reserves closed the year with an 11-7 mark. Woody McBride's "B's" chalked up wins over Broad Ripple, North Central, New Albany, Ben Davis, Wood, Arlington, Sacred Heart, Terre Haute Gerstmeier, Cathedral, and Bloomington.

Coach Howard Dardeen's Freshmen came through with a winning 11-6 campaign in his first season as mentor. They won over Shortridge, Cathedral, Wood, Sacred Heart (twice), Ben Davis, Broad Ripple, Tech, Arlington, Brebeuf, and Warren Central.

Styring Cops Baseball MVP — 11 Letters Return

The 1962 Redskin baseballers concluded their season on the wrong end of a 3-8 record. The three wins came in the first, ninth, and last games. The diamondmen began the season by dropping Sacred Heart 10-5, Washington 4-2, and wrapped the schedule up by licking Warren Central 5-3.

Junior Bill Styring was voted the team's MVP and received the coveted Menges trophy and also a trophy for the least number of strike-outs.

Only five seniors—Bill Ralston, Terry Boyer, Greg Blount, Tom Marshall, and Steve Cummings—graduated from Coach Gene Harvey's crew. Lettermen returning are Bill Styring, Doug Mullen, Mike Shea, Larry Marker, Phil Steele, Jim Jones, Denzil Throckmorton, Mike Liggett, Vic Jacobs, Larry Markle and Elmer Pottorff. Young Teams Struggle on Courts and Links

Coach Oral Bridgford's seven-man golf squad came through with 8 wins in 19 matches during spring play, '62. The linksmen downed the Wood team three times and had victories over Tech, Seccina, Martinsville, and Sacred Heart. Defeats came by Howe, Lawrence Central, Broad Ripple, Ben Davis, Greenfield, Speedway, Seccina, and two each by Warren Central and Southport. Two seniors, three sophomores, two freshmen were the team.

Dick Hedegard swung his way to a Runner-up position in the city tennis tournament to highlight a 7-7 spring season for Manual's racketmen. Coach Walter's sophomore- and freshmen-heavy team downed teams from Washington, Ben Davis, Sacred Heart, Howe, Park, and North Central. Eleven boys on the team were sophomores or freshmen and will make the bulk of the 1963 squad, as only Rex Hedegard, Cliff Seyfried, Ron Cooper were lost by graduation.

Ovalmen Cut 5 Marks; Race to 12-1 Season

Manual's track supremacy of the last four years continued strong with the 1962 track team piling up twelve wins and one defeat. Coach "Mo" Moriarty's season was highlighted by record-setting performances and award-winning Hoosier Relay showings.

Manual's mile relay team of Chuck Dennison, Bill Jones, Roger Wathen, and Leon Carter set a new city record of 3:31, and Carter set an Indianapolis regional time of 1:57.3 in the 880 to mark the big achievements of the campaign. New school records were also set by Roger Wathen in the broad jump with a leap of 21'-6", and in the 440-yard dash with a 51.6 clocking. Gene McFarland upped the pole vault mark to 12 feet. Manual marched off with 12 medals in the Hoosier Relay. Seven boys won awards in four distance relay events: Leon Carter, Chuck Dennison, Steve Richards, Steve Sudler, Roger Wathen, Larry Johnson, and Bill Jones.

Teams downed by the Redmen were Terre Haute Gerstmeyer, Seccina, Lawrence Central, Wood, Franklin Central, Cathedral, Southport, Ben Davis, Sacred Heart, Columbus, Warren Central, and Washington. Over the last four years, the trackmen have compiled a 45-7 record with prospects good for next year, since only seven boys graduated. These boys are Leon Carter, Chuck Dennison, Steve Richards, Tom Shultz, Steve Sudler, J. Winkelbach, and Mark Zaenglein. Roger Wathen and Bill Jones of the record-setting relay team will return for future action along with record-holder Gene McFarland.

Flying high over the bar, Gene McFarland (top) uses a pole to accomplish his goal while Bill Pillow uses the spring in his legs. Both will return next season to improve their talents.

Varsity cheerleaders who boosted the 1962-63 Redskin teams are Lynne Barnett, Joy Vornehm, Karen Bertels, Mary Stainbrook, Carol Maier, Captain Terri Stoneburner, Bob Bauer, Indian Mascot Jan Buzzard, and Robbie Olds.

Robbie Olds appears to be glued upside down to the sky as he completes a front flip.

The scoreboard tells the story as Carol Maier and Lynne Barnett celebrate a second first-quarter touchdown.

Hopefuls for next year's Varsity are Reserve cheerleaders Linda Harkness, Pam Payne, Beverly Porter, and back row, Captain Jeanne Fletcher, Robin Rogers, and Jane Sprague.

All up in the air is Karen Bertels as she joins Terri Stoneburner, the Marching Band, blanket-wrapped twirlers, the Pep Club, and football fans in cheering our gridgers on.

Manual for Redskins

Manual is history books, slide rules, basketball games, and club meetings. But, most of all,
Manual is people. Long after we forget what we learned in English class, we remember the friends who sat around us. The first date, the basketball player who scored the winning points, the cast of the Redskin Revue act, the gang at the Prom—this is our Manual of Friends.

Senior Class Welcomes Back More Than 350

Officials of the Class of 1963 are President Dwight Kendrick, Vice-president Conni Dorville, Secretary Jan Buzzard, and Treasurer Bill Styring. Each Home Room also had a sub-treasurer.

Kings and queens, noisy Senior Home Room, preparations for the future, and a last-ditch effort to make the grades—this was the 1963 Senior Class. Preserving their image as top upperclassmen, the seniors had their chance to be a real “class of distinction” October 17, Senior Day. Before school, the Cafeteria buzzed with the frenzied activity of pinning on arm bands and roses; and after school, it swarmed with dancing seniors.

On Turn-about Day, November 14, Bill Styring took over as principal for the day and directed his student faculty and staff. Acting as Vice-principals E. Franklin Fisher and Noble Poole were Martha Melton and Bob Dearing. Jolly Old Saint Nick (Bob Surber) was the special guest at the Senior-Freshman Christmas party, December 20. Twisting was new for the old fellow, but he wasn't too tired to find presents for everyone in his well-known bag.

Teachers were invited to a Valentine Tea served by the Senior Council, February 8. Hammy class members produced the Senior Play, May 17. Vespers, June 2, and Commencement on the 6th finished the year and made all the last-minute cramming worth it. But high school graduation meant not only serious thoughts for the future, but also the last time the class was together to have fun. The occasion was the Prom at the Indiana Roof Ballroom, June 7.

Preparing to silk-screen senior arm-bands are Bill Penner, Dan Mack, and Jim Patterson. This year's senior insignia, designed by Mike Roush, followed a tradition started in and used continuously since 1909. The red on white felt bands were worn for all senior occasions.

Elections, Rings, Prom Brighten Junior Year

Junior officers Denise Shockley, Ronnie Rae, Patsy Briggs, and Gene Voelkel discuss the year's plans with Mr. J. Ray Johnson.

Some 450 Manualites came back to school in September as members of the Junior Class of 1963. No longer sophomores, they looked forward to being upperclassmen and receiving all the privileges that the name implies—organizing a class, getting rings, electing officers, and going to the Junior Prom.

Their year commenced with the first official meeting early in the fall semester; here, they organized and planned this year's activities. These activities began with the election of Junior Class officers during the first week in October. Next came the decoration of the traditional Christmas tree December 10. Following this was Junior Day, March 6. This gave juniors an opportunity to "spruce up" for other Manualites by dressing up for the occasion. Each was also decorated by either a red or white carnation. The true emblems of a junior class—their rings, arrived in March. Culminating this year's junior activities was the Junior Prom at Butler's Atherton Center on May 4.

Manual for Redskins

Teen-agers, especially working teen-agers as many of us are, make up a large spending force in our community, and in Indianapolis as a whole. Where to go for a coke after the football game, where to have a formal or suit cleaned, where to buy the corsage or boutonniere for the dance—these are all questions we ask during the school year. And the following pages have the answers, our Manual of Advertising.
